They also secured 113 pints and four quarts of beer and ale.

Pvt. Eric L. McNamee, 21 years old, son of W. L. and Mrs. McNamee, Fountain Road, Grimsby. He enlisted with the 44th Highlanders and has spent three Christmases overseas and holds out hope of being home for this Yuletide. While enroute to Sicily the transport he was on was torpedoed by a German Sub. He and four comrades reached a raft and were adrift for five hours before being picked up and finally landed in Africa, losing everything but the clothes they were wearing. He has taken part in the battles of Sicily and Italy and while a transport driver covered over 15,000 miles without an accident of any kind. He is now serving as a clerk in the Central Registration office of the 1st Canadian Infantry Brigade, of the 8th Army. In letters to his folks he wishes to express his deep gratitude to "Canny" Milliard and the citizens of Grimsby for the many welcome cigarettes he has received from them through the Cigarette Fund.

Army Boys Hold Big Field Meet

Sgt. Bill Rooker Sends Most Elaborate Program of Track And Field Events Held In Italy.

Note -- The boys fighting in Italy are enjoying other lines of sports besides popping off Dagoes is evidenced by the elaborate programme received last week of the Allied Army Track and Field Championships held by the 5th and 8th Armies on July 15th and 16th. The following letter accompanied the programme. —Ed. Hello "Bones":

No doubt you will be very surprised to hear from me, and you have every right to be as I'm afraid I've neglected you very much indeed.

I'm sending along this program from the big meet we had in Rome, the best boys in both the 5th and 8th Armies did their stuff. G. F. HANNING PASSES AWAY

Was One Of The Best Known Civil Engineers In The Province — Was In Grimsby For 17 Years — Was Hydro Electric Pioneer.

A long and useful life was terminated on Saturday afternoon when George F. Hanning, well known Civil Engineer passed away suddenly at his home, The Anchorage, in Clarkson.

George Forest Hanning was one of the best known and best liked men of his profession in the province. He also was a pioneer in engineering, had been with Canadian Pacific railway in the early days and later with the Mackenzie and Manic Interests when the Canadian Northern was laid out and constructed.

During the days of the late Sir Adam Beck when the Hydro Electric was being given birth and nurtured in its infancy he was closely associated with the "Great Power Knight" and was the engineer in charge of location and survey for the whole of south western Ontario.

He later joined the Ontario Department of Highways and prior to coming to Grimsby was Chief District Engineer of the Western half of the province.

He came to Grimsby in 1926 as Chief Engineer of Residency No. 4 and remained here until the office was removed in 1943. Shortly after that he retired from active service.

His health had not been good of late but his passing was not expected by his legion of friends throughout the Dominion and will be greatly regretted by all.

Funeral services were held on Tuesday afternoon.

Recently decorated by King George, Pilot Officer Roy Hurst, D.F.C., son of Harvey Hurst and the late Mrs. Hurst, of Grimsby, has returned from overseas and is spending a furlough at the home of his father here.

P.O. Hurst, who enlisted in June, 1940, went overseas as an airframe mechanic in February, 1943, with the rank of L.A.C. In England he remustered for airmen, and was awarded a flight engineer's wing in October, 1942, and posted to the City of Vancouver Squadron on Coastal Command. After he had done six coastal patrol trips the entire squadron was moved to Bomber Command. As flight engineer on a heavy bomber, he completed two tours of operations including raids on Berlin — termed Old Faithful by the airmen — seven on Happy Valley — the Ruhr district — and many others on Hamburg, Mannheim, Ludwigshafen, Munich, Turin, in Italy, and other "hot spots."

"The raids over Hamburg," he related, "were the hottest we ever had. Every time we went there we got in trouble and our bomber was pretty well battered every trip. The

THE ROAD AHEAD

(By a Grimsby Boy in Italy)

I've hugged my belly to the ground while regiments of big guns stood up hub to hub and split the night with flame . . .

I've felt the earth quake under a tidal wave of tanks that rolled out of our lines and engulfed the enemy and smothered him and beat him down into the ground . . .

I've seen the sky blacked out by a thousand bombers' wings . . . and heard it cracked wide open by the thunder of their bombs . . .

And yet . . . through the ruins of war, I've seen the road ahead . . .

Out here I've seen the power of Canada at war, the might of freeborn men who work and fight to keep their freedom. And I believe this power to destroy can be the power to create . . .

And looking down the victory road I see a new Canada . . .

I see new cities rising up . . . new farms . . . new roads, new homes, new schools . . . new factories that will plan and build for peace the way they planned and built for war . . .

I see a place for me, and for the kids I'll have someday . . . a place for every man . . . a future to look forward to . . . a job to do . . .

I see a chance to live and grow in a stronger Canada . . .

After we've won the war . . .

While we're winning the peace!

MAGNIFICENT PARTNERSHIP

Back, at the dawn of the century, in 1900, things were different. The average factory worker earned then $334.00 per year. Low pay, wasn't it? Indeed it was! I remember, before that, when we remodelled our home, the wages of a carpenter were $1.00 a day but "Dad" gave him an extra ten cents. He said: "He was a man one could always trust".

I recall the old cobbler, making a pair of shoes. Capital didn't get much out of that business. The investment wouldn't exceed $10.00. He didn't carry much stock. He bought enough leather, at one time, to make two or three pairs of shoes. Wages are paid out of production. They always are. Wages are out when production is low. There was no outcry then about the "money barons", nor the bankers, no one to tell the workers how the "big fellows" crushed the life out of the little man! They didn't. Without capital to increase production the pay of the worker must be low. This happens when there is no capital seeking investment, or when men are afraid to invest their earnings.

Then began the new era, production per man moved up. It stood at $1,418.00 per worker in 1900. I do not need to cover the intermediate span of the years. The figures are available in the Canada Year Book for one who wants to look them up. In 1939, had risen to $5,280.00 per worker—quite a difference isn't it? The worker was then $1,120.00, this of course is an average of all workers. Real earnings will continue to increase as productivity increases—that is the basis of high earnings.

It was the machine which increased productivity. Without it we would still have been producing at the 1900 level. Capital provided the machines. Something was coming to the worker who had increased his investment. He did not get all the gains which arose from the increased volume of production. How much did labor get?

In the production of any factory product there are a great many costs which have to be taken into account. There is light, fuel, power and general expense, interest maintenance, depreciation etc., then there are the raw materials which enter into production.

The compensation received by the worker in 1900 represents 23.6% of the value of the product produced. As new capital was added, new machines installed, the worker received a smaller percentage share of the product produced, for if he received the same percentage as he did before, there would be nothing to provide for capital—in that case no capital investment would take place. In 1939 the percentage going to the worker—that is to say the percentage proportion of the product produced, the amount which he could buy back with his wages, was 21.2%, instead of 23.6% as it had been in 1900.

We may now restate the position of labor in a few words. When the worker produced in 1900, goods valued at $100.00, he received by way of compensation $23.60. In 1939 he produced, in fewer hours, and under better working conditions, $378.00, and he received for this $80.14, instead of $23.60. This represents the improvement in the condition of the worker since 1900 an improvement due mainly to increased use of machinery. It has been indeed a magnificent partnership—for labor.

A LESSON FROM THE PIONEERS

Mr. Donald Gordon of the Wartime Prices and Trades Board warns us that even though the war situation looks brighter, we must still curb our spending and do without. To our forefathers this was an art that needed no war to instill.

Here is a description of furniture given by a pioneer himself: "A bedstead, roughly hewn out with a felling-axe, the sides, posts and ends held together in screeching trepidation by strips of basswood bark . . . a table that might be taken for a virtual chopping block; four or five benches of the same rude mechanism."

And what of the house into which they put such furniture? It was made of logs fourteen to sixteen feet long, notched at the corners sufficiently deeply to hold firm and not leave too much space between to be filled with mud and moss or wedge-shaped bits of wood. In one of these four walls a doorway was cut in which they could hang a blanket, if they had one, or an animal skin. As for the roof—this might be made of elm bark. Since they had no nails, the pieces of bark were tied with withes to pole-rafters.

Don't run away with the idea that the pioneers were content with this rugged discomfort. One of the housewife's greatest ambitions was to possess an iron cooking stove so that she could give up cooking at the open fireplace. The smoke, by the way, might go forth through a hole in the roof, that is, if they had no clay or stone to make a fireplace with chimney.

And what did they use for sweeping the floor? A cedar or hemlock broom made by tying a flat bundle of boughs to a handle and trimming broom-shape with an axe; or for stronger work, such as cleaning the rough wooden floor, they made a splint broom of green hickory, splintering one end with a knife.

COMFORT IN THE COACH

Men folks immediately will grasp the idea of Pullman-Standard's recently announced postwar overnight coach seats which will enable the passenger to "stretch out" for a comfortable sleep on seats designed to tilt "way" back like a barber's chair.

We can't speak for the women folks, but we assume that there must be some wonderment among them when they see a man shake himself down into the tilted cushions, blow out a deep breath of contentment, and close his eyes as the barber begins to lather up.

Pullman Standard describes it as "chaise-longue" sleeping comfort, if that helps to put across the idea as to how the new seats will function. Oh, in case you're interested the window draperies will be converted into curtains at night, separating each pair of seats and providing each passenger with a semi-private compartment.

So far so good. But to assure us of all this sleeping comfort, what are the postwar plans for keeping those coach conductors from asking us up for our tickets all through the night?

If people would take some of the time to spend in complaining about defects in the home town, in improving their own homes, it would help the cause of progress.

This sign appeared in a window of a old Chinese laundry in Los Angeles:

Uncle Sam, he put me in khaki,
Soon will give Jappy plenty whacky.
Teach burns lesson in Nagasaki,
God bless America, by cracky!
Bring me Tojo in haversacky,
So keep shirt on till I come backy!

Perhaps we have gone a long way and learned a good deal since those days, but the average man has lost a good deal too, in the old family woodpile, that filled the woodshed and overflowed out of doors. No longer can we fire up to our hearts content, without thinking of the cost or the fuel controller either.

THE OLD HOME

O wandering, wandering feet.
Turn now and wander home;
But now I long to go home.
Back to the lawn inside the old gate,
To the old apple tree's pleasant shade;
To the unpainted door, the old kitchen stove,
To the scrubbed-white deal table, home-made.
I'd see the old clock on the wall-shelf again,
I'd drink from the mug at the spring;
I'd stretch out once more on the old home-made couch.

I'd hear the old dinner bell ring.
I'd walk through the orchard among the old trees,
I'd wander around the old barn;
I'd pet the old horses and cows in their stalls;
I'd lead them to drink at the barn.
I'd harness the team as I did years ago,
I'd drive them out to the plow;
I'd try once more a straight furrow to make,
Again wipe the sweat from my brow.
I'd work all the day till the sun went down,
Just to see how much I would tire,
I'd come in after dark my supper to eat,
There smoke by the old fire-breath.
Then off to my bed, areaking rope bed;
On its straw tick, in the blankets I'd creep,
And never wake up to the five o'clock bell.
Called me back from the best land of sleep.

THE GIRL OF TO-DAY

You have my sympathy, little girl,
The men don't like you: clothes,
Nor your hair combed over your pretty ear—
Poke fun at your powdered nose.
I know that your grandmama wore a train
And she swept the sidewalk clear
And the men they sneered, and the men they growled
Men always have, I ween,

But she went right on in her own sweet way,
Just as you do, my dear.
And she mopped up measles and typhoid germs,
And scattered them everywhere.
When she put on bustles and big hoop skirts
The men folks jeered and mocked,
And when she banged and bobbed her beautiful hair
Strong virile men were shocked.
So you're just as sweet as your grandmama was—
And she was winsome and true—
And you'd look like sin if you dressed like her—
And she wouldn't have dressed like you!
Her heart was clean and her soul was white,
And her fair fame stands undimmed,
For it's not the cut of your gown that counts—
It's the way your soul is trimmed.

Farming looks nice—from a car window.

I don't know o' nothin' better 'n a woman if you want to spend money where it'll show.

FOURTH FIGHTING ARM

CANADA'S MERCHANT NAVY

Since the outbreak of war ships of Canada's Merchant Navy, manned by Canadian merchant seamen, have been shuttling back and forth to the United Kingdom and the war fronts of the world. They have helped in the all-important task of transporting tanks, vehicles, aircraft, vital war materials, munitions and supplies required to build up the huge reserves which have made possible the concentrated and sustained weight of the allied attacks in Normandy, Italy, Burma and other fronts. Likewise, Canada's contribution to Russia under the mutual aid agreement has played no insignificant part in the remarkable advances by the Russian armies on the eastern European battlefield. All such commodities have had to be transported across the Atlantic or Pacific in the face of concentrated attacks by enemy submarines and bombing aircraft. Men of this un-uniformed service have doggedly maintained these lifelines in the evacuations of Dunkirk, Greece and Crete, aided in the establishment of beachheads in Mediterranean war theatres and pushed through to northern Russia.

The volume of Canada's contribution to the allied merchant navies can only be appreciated when it is realized what one of Canada's new merchant vessels -- and there are now more than 100 in active operation -- can carry in one trip. One ship, for example, left a Canadian port loaded to the pinball with enough motor transports to equip one battalion of infantry; several thousand tons of vital war metals including enough aluminum to manufacture 640 fighter aircraft; 1080 tons of bombs; enough food to feed an army of 25,000 for one week; lumber for re-building damaged areas; and a few landing boats chained to the deck.

Canada's men of the Fighting Fourth Arm give no quarter and ask none from either weather or enemy. They suffer untold hardships in order that munitions and supplies get through to the fighting fronts and to civilian populations.

You can help build the morale of these men mightily by seeing that each and every one receives a well-filled Ditty Bag for Christmas. The cost to you is small but the man who receives it treasures it like gold.

Drop in at Navy League headquarters and arrange to fill one or more Ditty Bags or better still call Mrs. "Buddy" Shafer at 205 and tell her of your intentions.

Training and Education— Doorways to Opportunity

SOCIAL SECURITY MEASURES

In planning Canada's re-establishment program, its framers worked with one principal idea in mind. This was that the only answer to the problem of permanent re-establishment is a job, and that the surest way to get and hold that job is by the skill necessary for it.

VOCATIONAL TRAINING

Every ex-service man or woman who will be assisted in re-establishment by training is eligible to have it. There is provision for paying fees for all courses and, in addition, the ex-service man or woman may receive maintenance grants up to:

$10 monthly if single;

$80 monthly for a man and his wife, together with children's allowances. This training is available for the period of service to a maximum of one year, but can be extended beyond that period, if necessary, and if service is more than one year.

EDUCATIONAL TRAINING

This is available to all who are admitted to university within 12 months of discharge and, as in vocational training, fees are paid and there are maintenance allowances up to:

$60 monthly for a single man;

$80 monthly for a man and his wife, together with allowances for dependent children.

These allowances will be continued on a month for month basis of the time in the services, providing all examinations are passed. Outstanding students may have assistance continued to completion of the course.

SOCIAL SECURITY MEASURES

Under the re-establishment program Canada's veterans who, within 12 months of discharge from the services, become ill or unemployed may draw together with children's allowances. The out-of-work benefits are for those fit and able to work, but for whom there is no work immediately available. In the case of serious illness there is free treatment and hospitalization for any condition in the year following discharge.

As a further security measure, every veteran who enters insurable employment is entitled, after 15 weeks in that employment, to unemployment insurance credit as though the whole period in the services since July 1, 1941, had been spent in the insurable employment.

VETERANS' WELFARE OFFICERS ARE STATIONED IN KEY CENTRES THROUGHOUT CANADA. THEY ADVISE AND ASSIST EX-SERVICE PERSONNEL, AND SHOULD BE CONSULTED IN ALL PROBLEMS.

Issued under the authority of Hon. Ian A. MacKenzie, Minister of Department of Veteran's Affairs

MRS. ATKENS RE-MAKE REVIEW

Mrs. Atkins presented her remake, review in Trinity Hall, Friday evening to an interested audience. Many and varied were the effects obtained by making over men's suits to women's, curtains to dresses and evening gowns to negligees. One particularly gay garment was a child's dressing gown made from the tops of old socks appliqued with bright coloured threads to grey flannel after the pattern of a crazy quilt. Mrs. Atkins told an interesting story regarding this colourful gown which covered a small boy in one of the nursery schools in England. He had been bombed out and was homeless, penniless and seemed to have lost the power of speech and the ability to think. But, when one of these gowns was given to him he pointed to one of the patches and said, "My daddy had a pair of socks like that."

Mrs. Joan Eaton entertained very capably at the piano prior to the appearance of Mrs. Atkins.

The models — Jerry Bowes, Ruthie Baker, Bobbie Hillier, Ruth Lindensmith, Cynthia Harrison, Jean Harrison, Judy Barter, Mrs. Belle Wilson, Barbara Kirk, Doris Dupper, Marilyn Milliard deserved a great deal of credit for their performance for from the wee ones to the tall ones all did beautifully.

WOMEN'S INSTITUTE

The October meeting of the Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. A. Stevenson. The meeting opened with the Ode with the President, Mrs. Gee Warner in the chair.

The Roll call was answered with a reading. The delegates appointed for the Annual convention to be held in the Royal Connaught Hotel on Thursday, October 26th and 27th, were Mrs. Gee Warner and Mrs. A. Stevenson.

Mrs. Burton gave a very interesting talk on Literature.

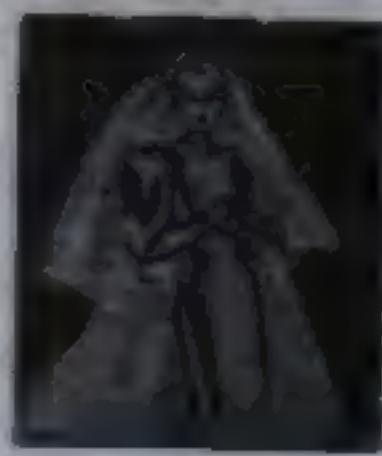

The meeting closed with the National Anthem, after which Mrs. Sutherland and her committee served a dainty lunch.

Kids Raised $34.00 For Cigarettes

Cigarette Fund benefitted greatly on Saturday from the sale of pie pumpkins and other vegetable produce that the kids from the west end of the town conducted in front of the Post Office.

They had a nice display of goods and netted $34.25 which has been turned over to "Cammy" Millay.

The kids who conducted this vegetable market were Peter Phelps, Merritt, Anderson, Allan Bentley, Bunny Kemp, Carine Shantz and Donna Marsh.

Last week Col. Ramsay sent home from Nova Scotia a basket of clams right from the Atlantic and these have been donated to the Cigarette Fund and are now on view in Bett's butcher shop where draw tickets can be purchased and the proceeds will go to the fund.

SHIPS

This is the Song of the Ships—

Of little ships and mighty ships,
Of bollards, and stanchions, and
cleats,

Corvettes, cruisers and submarines,
Sweepers, and flanking fleets,
Of blazing guns—of tankers grey,

Of heat, and the smoking stacks,
Of pain and toll, and smothering
oil,

And the wake in the zig-zag tracks.

Of charts, and shoals, of thundering waves,

Or watch in the morning grey,
Of rocks — and ice, of fog, and mines,

(For our men live hard to-day).

Of hawsers and tugs, of carrier craft,

Torpedoes, and screaming shells—of turbines throb, and crowded raft

And men on the ocean swell.

This is the Song of the Ships—

And you, who sleep so sound o'
nights,

Do you wake, and think of those?
Little ships, and mighty ships,
And men on the wind-swept seas!

Wont you please fill a Ditty
Bag.

Practical Joke Gets Two Months

(St. Catharines Standard)

Police believe they have put a stop to a series of "jokes" which have been telephoned to headquarters over the past several weeks with the sentencing of Walter Strain, aged 21, Marquis Street, to two months in the county jail. Strain was convicted of a public mischief charge of giving false information to the police.

Fast work by Sgt. Frank Jarvis in conjunction with the Bell Telephone Co., resulted in Strain being nabbed "in the act." Tuesday night the police sergeant received a telephone message that a Geneva street sto - was being burglarized. Suspicious that it was another false alarm, he checked the origin of the call through the telephone supervisor.

Advised that it was coming from the N.R. & T. Terminal at least two blocks from the supposed break-in, Sgt. Jarvis, dispatched a police radio car to the terminal and then held the telephone caller in conversation until Constables Wm. Watson and Wm. Francis arrived at the Terminal a few minutes later. There they found Strain still in conversation with Sgt. Jarvis and brought him to headquarters. Strain is said to have admitted at least four such false alarms, ranging all the way from street brawls to tire thefts.

GRIMSBY CITIZENS

In the local district 11, 511 books were issued according to figures provided by Armand B. Hummel, Secretary of The Board. This is 214 more than were issued last March when 11,587 were handed out.

In Grimsby and North Grimsby the residents secured 4,070 books, an increase of 222; in Beamsville Township, 1,702, an increase of 163; Clinton Township, 2,158, a decrease of 128; South Grimsby, 1,321, an increase of 103; Gainsboro, 1,580, a decrease of 26; Cainsford, 868, a decrease of 71.

INDUCTION SERVICE

Following the induction, a reception was held in the church hall, a highlight being a presentation made on behalf of the congregation, by R. D. Colpitts, to Colonel and Mrs. W. W. Johnson, who are leaving Grimsby to reside in Northern Ontario where Col. Johnson is commandant of the Northern Area M.D. No. 2.

On behalf of the Mission Band, of which he was president, a presentation was also made to Walter Johnson, Jun., by Miss Kathleen Ossichuk.

Mrs. R. D. Colpitts and Mrs. Arthur Norton poured tea and Miss Vanetta Shuer sang.

county at the first of the year agreed to subsidize the Federation by one-fifth of a mill on the county rate. This amounts to a little less than $4,000 and is paid to the Federation as required.

After considerable discussion and legal consultation, council authorized an agreement to permit Arthur Lambert, Lakeshore Road, Louth Township, to lay 1,000 feet of two-inch water main along the county road, an extension to the existing main.

A resolution of condolence was passed to Reeve and Mrs. J. Goodman Pettigrew, South Grimsby, who received word last week that their son, Louis Pettigrew, had been killed in action on the western front.

Rome itself is a really beautiful city, never saw such marvellous buildings and monuments. Shall never forget the Cathedral of St. Peter's and the old coliseum and Victor Emmanuel Monument. No place in Canada can compare to it all.

Well the two Warner boys came around the other day and we really had a long chat, how everything was back in the old home town. Old "Gamecock" hasn't changed a great deal in all these years. He sure had some good stories to tell about. Both looking very well and wish to be remembered to you.

Well I hope you can find a place in your old Book of Sports for this program, thought you may like to have it for future years. Now best of luck, Bonas old boy. Cheerio, and hope to see you again. Soon.

only man we lost on our entire two tours, our mid-upper gunner, was mortally wounded on our first trip. On our second visit we took fire just over the target, but managed to get back to base safely. On other Hamburg trips we were hit 50 to 75 times by enemy flak."

With the exception of one gunner, he said, the entire two tours were completed by the same crew and, incidentally, a D.B.O., five D.F.C.s, a Bar to the D.F.C. and two D.P.M.s, have been awarded to that one bomber crew.

"On all our trips over enemy country," he said, "we were only attacked by fighters once and in that instance our mid-upper gunner was credited with a 'probable.' We had a thrilling experience that time when a Halifax, flying less than one hundred yards from us, was hit by a enemy fighter which came up underneath. Its gas tank exploded and the whole sky was lighted up as bright as day. We were watching the crew bail out and it took us about 15 minutes to realize we were sitting there like a lame duck, brightly lighted and a perfect target for other fighters. Believe me, we got out of there in a hurry and headed for the darkest spot in the sky we could find."

Speaking of robot bombs, he told of a rather amusing experience he had in London. Staying overnight at a well-known hotel there, he left a call for 7 o'clock in the morning and at exactly that hour he was awakened by a terrific noise. Good old "Scotty" McKay. He always comes through in the clutch. He was in town for two hours on Tuesday and it cost him $5 an hour. Just another one of his $10 contributions to the Cigarette Fund. The boys didn't exactly appreciate last week's poem so here's one:

I think that I shall never see
A girl refuse a meal that's free,
A girl without a penitent look
At some poor guy she'd like to hook.
A girl who doesn't always wear
A crazy hat upon her hair!
Who doesn't always complain
'Bout going out in snow and rain.
But girls are loved by boys like me
'Cause who the heck would love a tree?

Cubbing

Peter Phelps led in the grand howl when the cubs and their leaders gathered around the totem pole on Friday evening, Oct. 30th. Gary Scott received his guide and house orderly badges from Akela and Peter Bromley his collectors.

A lively game which combined bean bag tossing, roping, jumping and book balancing was entered into with great enthusiasm. The red six were the winners in this contest with the white a close second. The cubs then gathered around the camp fire where for the benefit of the new chums Akela told them how cubbing came into being. They were very interested to learn that after the boy scouts were formed the younger boys clamored so insistently to belong to a similar movement that the late Lord Baden Powell organized the wolf cubs taking for his guide Kipling's Jungle Book. Akela complimented the cubs on their fine showing on apple day and said he was proud of each and every one. Douglas Keltborn led in the mouse call.

On Monday evening, Oct. 23rd, the Pack met again at the high school with the scouts to take part in a "going up" ceremony, when five cubs were taken from the cub circle by cub leader Cyril Mote.
